

Graylingites Enter Flying School

CLASS OF 11 ALREADY ENROLLED

There is enthusiasm galore among a number of our young people about learning to fly. Already a class of 11 has been started and soon Grayling will have a group of licensed airplane pilots.

F. D. (Fritz) Heath was the first to venture and enrolled last February and has 12 hours of flying to his credit. Others started last month. Alfred Hanson and Mrs. Heath (Nadine McNeven) each has 2 hours of flying time. Others in the class are as follows:

Alex Kochanowski, Don Leslie, Herbert Feldhauser, Jack Calahan, Wagner Cool, Charles Renwick, Forrest Washburn, and Leo Lively.

The instructor is B. B. Soules of Prudenville. He uses a Taylorcraft Cabin monoplane, and holds transport pilot and teachers licenses. At present Mr. Soules comes here only on Sundays, but as the classes grow he plans to come to Grayling every other day.

In talking with Fritz Heath, we were told that a pupil must have a credit of 10 hours of flying before he may do solo flying. This includes experience in tailspins, loops, flying upside down and other stunts that a plane might get into. Mr. Heath has done all these and is ready for solo flying. He is most enthusiastic over the work and says he wouldn't take $1,000 for what he has already learned. The course of lessons is $50.00.

We can readily see how this appeals to young men and women and we hope to see Grayling turn out a lot of expert air pilots.

Geo. Biggs Dies From Heart Attack

George A. Biggs, age 67 years, highly esteemed citizen of Grayling for close to half a century, died suddenly at his home Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from a heart attack. Mr. Biggs first was taken ill Monday evening, but his illness was not considered serious however as he had been in poor health for several years.

Funeral services were held Wednesday evening at the Grayling Funeral home, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating, and the remains taken this morning to his birthplace, Denton, Mich., where services are being held this afternoon and where interment will take place. The pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased—Menno Corwin, Howard and George Granger, Amos Hoesli, Ernest and Everett Corwin.

Mr. Biggs took a lot of pride in planting and caring for a vegetable garden and Monday had worked all day putting in seed. His leisure hours were usually spent at home, and he was a loving husband and father and had a host of friends. He was an ardent supporter of the Townsend club and hoped that that plan of old age assistance would eventually be adopted.

Mr. Biggs was born June 24, 1870 in Wayne County, Michigan, near Denton, where his boyhood was spent. In his early years he worked in the lumber woods both in Michigan and Minnesota. He came to Grayling in 1890. For about 15 years he worked for Salling Hanson Company and for the DuPont company as carpenter besides following the trade for himself for several years. However for the past five years he has been unable to work because of ill health.

December 21, 1897, Mr. Biggs was united in marriage to Mary J. Corwin at Northville, Mich., and to the union two children were born, a son dying in infancy. Surviving besides the widow is one daughter Mrs. Foryst Barber and four grandchildren. The family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Those in attendance at the burial, besides the family were Mrs. Celia Granger, Howard Granger, Mrs. Jas. Wingard and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Corwin.

"I Thank God I Am an American" is the title of a touching Memorial Day sermon by Frazier Hunt, newspaperman and outstanding author. Read this dramatic inspirational article in This Week, the Magazine with Sunday's Detroit News.

The Air Mail Goes Through

Although weather conditions prevented the first Airmail pick up for Grayling from following the special schedule of arrival, 1:42 P. M., the Post Office Department and Postmaster McDonnell are deeply grateful to Mayor Burke and the citizens of Crawford county for the fine turnout at the airport. Their cooperation is evidenced by the large number of airmail letters that left Grayling on its initial airmail flight. The receipts and cancellations for the week far exceeded the expectations of the Department and it can be truly said that Grayling and Crawford county more than did their parts in making National Airmail Week a success.

Due to rain and heavy fog the plane was grounded at Gaylord over night, but arrived at the Grayling Airport at 9:20 a. m. Friday and received the five pouches of mail from Postmaster McDonnell, which contained 562 pieces of airmail from Grayling and 110 pieces from the Mio Post Office. The plane arrived at its destination, Saginaw, shortly after 12:00 noon.

In addition to the publicity given Air Mail Week in the Avalanche, news items appeared in other leading newspapers throughout the state including three Detroit papers, Saginaw, Bay City and Grand Rapids. The special cachet sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce proved of real interest to the outside stamp collectors, as over 200 covers were received for the flight.

Mr. Carl F. Kaiser, pilot of the plane that carried the airmail from Grayling, is to be complimented on his good judgment in holding the flight over until weather conditions permitted. The plane carried four passengers besides the mail from St. Ignace, Petoskey, and Gaylord, and had anything happened enroute the people of Grayling would soon lose their enthusiasm for a permanent airmail stopoff.

Memorial Day Program

Another year has rolled around and the American Legion are making plans to observe Memorial Day in a manner appropriate to the occasion, with due tribute to their deceased comrades and friends.

The program will be much like former years with veterans of all wars invited to join in, and other patriotic organizations should they care to.

Those participating are asked to be at the American Legion hall at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Marching from the hall to the school building, they will be joined by several hundred children and the line of march will take them to the US-27 bridge, where flowers will be strewn on the waters and services held honoring those who died at sea.

Leaving the river bridge the procession will move to Elmwood cemetery where services will be held. Chaplain Harris of C. C. Camp Higgins will be the speaker. On the previous evening all graves of deceased members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C., will be brightened with a blossomed geranium and an American flag.

Most conspicuous in the parade will be Grayling's own American Legion Drum and Bugle corps in full uniform.

The public is cordially invited to help make the day a success by their attendance at the services.

SPECIAL MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

A special service will be held on next Sunday, (Memorial Sunday) May 29th, at 11 o'clock at the Michelson Memorial church. The memorial elms recently set out at the church and parsonage will be dedicated.

Every one is urged to attend church on Memorial Sunday.

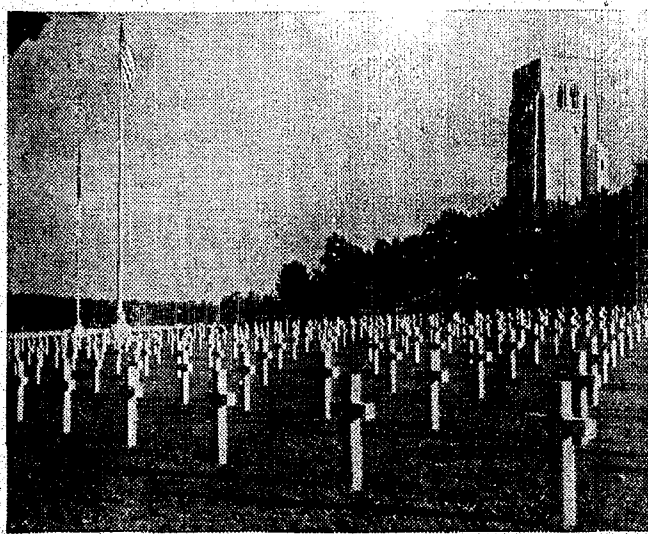

ENTERTAINED WITH LUNCHEON TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon of last week a very pretty luncheon was given by Mrs. Esbern Hanson at her home. The long table was very attractive with an arrangement of garden flowers.

The afternoon was spent playing contract, the honor score being held by Mrs. Arnold Smith of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Walker Monroe of Detroit, Mrs. O. E. Wilkinson of Burbank, Calif., and Mrs. Arnold Smith of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Crosses . . . Row on Row

Sad memories of war days return once more as the community marks Memorial day, May 30, amidst a world that again re-echoes with the tread of marching soldiers. Meanwhile 2,288 Americans, most of whom lost their lives in the World war, lie in the Alsne-Marne American cemetery near Belleau, France.

Att'y G. Brand Was Kiwanis Speaker

Attorney George E. Brand of Detroit was the speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon Wednesday. He gave a resume of the proposed plan for the selection of supreme court judges.

A commission for the nomination of candidates will be made up of three commissioners appointed by the members of the supreme court, three by the circuit judges of the state and three by the probate judges of the state. This commission will nominate candidates from whom will be selected by the governor his choice for the office.

Judges so selected will hold office for a period of eight years, just as do the present supreme court judges. A constitutional amendment to bring about this apparently needed reform will be submitted to the voters at next November's general election.

Mr. Brand has a summer residence on the North Branch river near Lovells and he and his family are quite well known here. Mr. and Mrs. Brand have two daughters and a young son. The latter is a student in Dartmouth college.

Next week's Kiwanis meeting will be held at the Douglas hotel in Lovells. The members will remember the fine time they had there last summer and will want to be there again.

Our Michigan

Our Michigan is quite a state.
In fact we think it's pretty great.
No other state from coast to coast
Has half the things of which we boast.
For Michigan is always first;
Sometimes the best, sometimes the worst,
But we have nearly everything
Of which another state may sing.

In manufacturing of cars
Our Michigan excels, by far.
In making furniture we've grown
Until we almost stand alone.
In education and in wealth,
Religion, recreation, health,
The raw materials we mine,
Our fishing, hunting, highways fine.

From past experience we've had
Our politics, both good and bad.
And here within our lovely state
Bank holidays originate.
And Michigan was first to stage
The "Sit-Downs" which became the rage.
We lead in welfare and in doles,
Also in crime and quick paroles.

Oh yes, we boast of many a thing
In Winter, Summer, Fall and Spring,
For in a single day, right here,
We get all seasons of the year.
The morning may be warm and bright
Then drop to ten below by night.
That's why each woman, child and man
Will stick by dear old Michigan.

—Ed. J. Viall.

(Editor's Note.—We are well informed that Louis from the Statler who is the owner and proprietor of Louis' Cabin is highly experienced and knows all about "Food and Service" but seems to be rather modest in seeking publicity towards making his talents and good work known which in our estimation should not be the case since there are many individuals who know, understand, and appreciate the value of fine food and service, and who would be pleased to know of his little establishment bearing the name "Louis' Cabin on the AuSable." Come on Louis let us hear from you more often.)

THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1938

We have made a good start on ridding this community of dogs and professional beggars and let's keep up the good work. And now it is a good thing to keep an eye on cats that destroy our song birds. Let's keep up this enthusiasm that has been so well started.

AN EASY ENGINEERING JOB

Those from Grayling who were in attendance at the "Straits Bridge and trunk line 23" meeting at Alpena Monday are quite enthusiastic about the bridge project that is being strongly recommended.

People travelling across the straits of Mackinac during the busy season cannot help but be strongly convinced that the bridge is needed. At times long lines of autos await their turns to board the car ferries and the congestion has been so heavy at times that many have turned back in disgust. And this condition has influenced travel thru Canada instead of by the Michigan route.

Illustrations were presented showing the engineering plans proposed and comparisons were made with other even more difficult problems that have been successfully solved.

According to the talks and information given the straits bridge problem is not a difficult one and engineering science is ready to assume the job with confidence.
The completion of this proposed bridge is going to mean much for Michigan, especially these northern counties.

VIVIAN DAWSON AND WESLEY DUNHAM MARRIED

Springing a surprise on their friends Miss Vivian Lois Dawson
and Mr. Wesley Dunham hid themselves away to Bay City Thursday, May 19th and were married. Rev. Edward F. Dunlavey of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated and the witnesses were Miss Frances May and Mrs. Dunlavey, wife of the pastor.
Following the ceremony the bridal party drove to Midland and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Daniels.

The bride who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W.
Dawson graduated with the class of '36 from Grayling High school.
The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Dunham and is employed in the A. & P. Store and is finishing high school this year.
Hosts of friends extend best wishes and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dunham, who are among Grayling's popular young people.

Dance Season Opens At Houghton Lake

RUSTIC DANCE PALACE WILL RENEW ACTIVITIES NEXT
FRI., SAT., AND SUN.
NIGHTS

Spring fever in the north usually becomes officially recognized about the time the "Rustic" opens its doors. This year the jolly young crowd that makes this section of the country their vacation rendezvous will ring in the 1938 season on Friday, May 27th.

Music will be furnished by an excellent eleven piece orchestra
led by the versatile Eddie Irwin
and his Bandoliers.

The Dance Palace has been newly redecorated and on Friday everything will be in readiness for what is expected to be the finest "grand opening" in the history of the RUSTIC.

RANDOM THOTS

How many gas pumps are there in Grayling and where was the first one located? Will someone please answer.

With so many house cars travelling north, we wonder if they are coming home from the south or are they just starting summer trips. It is still winter here.

Lake City recently voted to sell liquor by the glass. Grayling is one of the few Northern Michigan cities where that is not permitted.

We have a right to expect better weather for over Decoration day, but the weatherman will have to make some quick changes.

Being charitable with money
isn't enough. Let's add charity in thoughts, speech and actions.
Be charitable in your attitudes and your judgments.

Why not a Grayling Garden club? There is much such an organization can do. Many vacant lots about town can be cleaned up and beautified with flowers and gardens.

It will soon be bird hatching time when every cat should be kept at home. The state department of conservation has ruled that a cat off its owner's property is a predator and may be disposed of. But let's not be radical about it and give the cat a chance. However, birds are everyone's pride and they have the right of protection.

Ladies
Golf Club

The opening of the golf season
for the summer was held Wednesday afternoon when the Ladies Auxiliary of the Golf club entertained with a pot luck luncheon followed by a business session.

Mrs. Wm. Hill, president of the Auxiliary, called the meeting to order. Fourteen members responded to the roll call. The following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Wm.
Hill; vice president, Mrs. Esbern
Olson; Secretary, Miss Jayne
Keyport; treasurer, Mrs. Esbern Hanson.

The Auxiliary voted to entertain the gentlemen with a pot luck dinner and two-ball foursome Monday, May 30th. The tournament will be called at one-thirty o'clock, while the dinner will be served at five-thirty o'clock.

Mrs. Frank Bond was a guest of the club on Wednesday.

Skip Day

Last Thursday was a big day in the lives of the Senior class for they visited Lansing on a very interesting and worthwhile trip.
Starting from the school the twenty-two soon-to-be-graduates started out bright and early in spite of what seemed to be rather hostile weather. While it was raining and gloomy in Grayling it came off hot and sunny in the capitol city and the class suffered from heat instead of rain.

The Seniors toured the capitol
before lunch-time, and after eating went on a trip through the Olds plant. This was one of the highlights of the trip. From there they went out to Michigan State College and had a conducted tour of the campus, before making a trip into the Michigan State Police Post where everything was carefully explained from identification files to radio station. A fine dinner was served at night to the class in the Union building at the college. It was a day crammed with action and interest from which the Seniors derived full benefit.

May Festival

A large gathering of parents and friends of the school saw the May Day program which was presented in the gym last Thursday evening. The pupils in the kindergarten, first, and second grades of the north side school took part, and the entire program won praise as one of the feature events of the school calendar.

The youngsters were well trained and costumed artistically, and the program was charming. It ran off smoothly to the entire satisfaction of those present.
Originally planned for outside on the lawn the project was driven inside by the non-cooperative weather-man, whose hostility failed to keep the show from going on. The pretty program included a May Queen, with all of the court attendants, flowers,
raindrops, earthworms, frogs,
birds, rainbows, and a May-pole.
It was entirely a credit to Miss Tapio, Miss Bant, and Miss Kinsella, who were in charge.

Last Friday Grayling chalked up another win to their credit as they took Roscommon into camp to the tune of 7-0. It was a Peterson afternoon and Jim really went to town as he forced the opposing batters to pop up or strike out. Thirteen strike-outs were registered to his credit while allowing only one hit. For a time it proved to be a pitchers battle but in the later stages of the game Grayling began to find its batting eye and to score with regularity.

With the conference games in this section concluded, the Green and White squad of Coach Cornell can well be proud of its record. For the second year in succession the standings show that Grayling has won the Southern Division championship and the right to enter the playoff Decoration day with the Northern Division winner.

Word was received last week
that Virginia Charron, valedictorian of the class of 1938, has been awarded a scholarship for next year at Central State Teachers college Mt. Pleasant. This scholarship, awarded as a result of Virginia's scholastic record in high school, will cover the cost of tuition at Central for a period of one year.

HERE'S FLAVOR! NOT BITTER...NOT SWEET, BUT PLEASANTLY TANGFUL.

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT!

By IROQUOIS DAHL

ACCORDING to the San Francisco Call, a young couple went camping in the Tuolumne country. They parked their car, which was equipped with an especially loud horn, beside a stream and started out on a hike. The door to the driver's seat was left open.

Pretty soon an inquisitive but, apparently, good-natured bear strolled along. He climbed into the front seat and began looking for something to eat. During the process, he accidentally parked his hind-quarters on the horn button. The wall that rent the air scared the poor old bear so badly, he jumped right out through the top of the car.

Non-partisan News Letter
Michigan Press Association
By GENE ALLEMAN

Lansing—What effect Michigan's new civil service law will have on the present $2,000,000 a month payroll, an all-time high, is an interesting topic of speculation here.

Director Brownrigg "let the cat out of the bag", so to speak, when he casually informed League of Women Voters in Detroit that from two to three thousand state employees were to be dropped by July 1. Although he insisted later to the press that the estimate was merely a guess, Brownrigg was unable to convince observers here that he did not know what he was talking about.

The state administration is faced with a deficit that may extend to $20,000,000 by July 1. The likelihood grows that the bumper payroll will be cut before fall, campaign year or not. It represents an increase in state tax spending of over $9,000,000 in four years—an astonishing development in bureaucracy at Lansing.

Capitol City Bulging

Office room is at a premium here, and for some time there has been a trend to move state offices to Detroit.

The newly created civil service department, for example, has had to lease quarters in a warehouse district, away from the business area. Recently Attorney General Raymond Starr was called upon to pass on the legality of moving a state department wholesale to Detroit where office building space is not hard to obtain. Starr ruled against the transfer. Governor Murphy himself gave out a press statement that some solution must be found to keep the state government intact at the state capitol city.

A legislative commission to study the housing problem was unable to find a vacant office for its own use.

To date, the nearest approach to anything that looks like a solution is Brownrigg's admission that part of the payroll army is due to go. That ought to provide some room—maybe enough for the legislative study commission.

Relief Foremost

How to finance relief for the unemployed in Michigan still remains a problem.

As long as millions are needed to feed the hungry, there is little chance that school districts will get an increase in state aid over the present year. Districts received $41,200,000 in 1937-38, of which $16,000,000 came from the primary school fund and the balance from the state general fund.

Advocates of better education for the masses without local taxes to pay for it see a rising hope in legislation pending in Congress which would pour federal millions into public and parochial schools. Getting federal money without costing you anything is somewhat of a myth, however, as it has been proved that Michigan gets back less than half of what it contributes in form of federal taxes.

If more relief millions are needed at Lansing in 1938 and the entire biennium fund is nearly exhausted today, it is apparent that the state budget will continue to be unbalanced.

Fall Upturn Expected

Market pages of newspapers tell the cheerful news that general merchandise sales in small towns and rural areas were about 9 1/2 percent higher last month than for March.

Small towns are classified by advertising experts as those having 10,000 population or less. The small town-rural area, known as the "D" market, accounted for 32 percent of all merchandise sales last year. In population this area has 54 percent of the entire nation. It is a rich sales market.

You will be interested to know that the old-fashioned general store still is an important factor. These general stores last year sold as much food as all the food stores in the country put together. Your city cousins may not believe it, but a reliable consumer research survey established it as a fact. Metropolitan experts had to be shown pictures before they could be convinced there was such an institution as a general store.

While Michigan tourist regions will be an exception, the real upturn in business is not expected until fall.

Tourist Prospects Good

Michigan resort leaders are looking forward to a good season, despite the new depression.

The way the lake hotel people size 1938 up is this: People get fed up on their troubles. They like to "escape"—to get away—even though there may be unpaid bills on the merchants' books. A summer outing amid hot weather and then the highways will be loaded with people coming from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and other mid-western points.

European troubles and dividend reductions have combined to increase the number of inquiries received by Detroit and Chicago steamship companies. Lake travel will be popular this season. One company is abandoning the time-hallowed custom of seven day cruises. Three and four day trips with prices to fit the middle class budget are to be offered.

C. I. O. Reverses

John Lewis' reverse last week in Pennsylvania where his C. I. O. candidates were soundly drubbed has only strengthened the belief held by many observers that the Michigan C. I. O. has seen its best days. The peak in strength came early in 1937 when a combination of circumstances made the sit-down lawlessness a seeming evidence of success.

In Detroit the C. I. O. ticket was swamped.

Wildcat strikes this year in the ranks of the Michigan C. I. O. were too much even for Richard Frankenstein, U. A. W. vice-president, who proposed disciplining measures—but so far all in vain.

THE MAN PAST 40

Six recommendations are usually made to the man past 40 who is physically fit and wishes to remain so. They are:

1. Rest at least eight hours nightly. Sleep is beneficial, but not so important as relaxation, which relieves the body of circulatory and other burdens inherent in any activity.

2. Regular elimination without the use of cathartics. Two glasses of water before breakfast and raw fruit, stewed fruit and a cooked leafy green vegetable every day have been proved helpful.

3. Diet in moderation and avoidance of foods known to produce discomfort. Indulgence in alcohol is hazardous. Smoking need not be forbidden unless the heart is affected.

4. Exercise. This applies to the sedentary worker. Physical exertion should be avoided at the first hint of fatigue. Walking, golfing or competitive gymnasium games of the less violent sort are excellent for adding oxygen to the blood and burning up the residue of metabolism.

5. Recreation. An occasional show, a friendly game of cards, pursuit of a hobby or merely a good book and an easy chair from supper-time to bed-time are restoratives for the mental and physical man.

6. A physical examination once a year when blood pressure, weight, infection and signs of degeneration may be checked.

In one particular, the industrial worker has a decided advantage over his white-collar boss. When the factory whistle blows at evening, the worker may seize his coat and dinner pail and be off homeward, with never a thought of the job till the morning siren sounds. When the chief engineer, the production superintendent or sales manager closes his desk for the day, a well-stuffed brief case usually accompanies him home. His mind is busy with his problems through dinner. He pays little attention to what is set before him. He is lucky to be able to relax for a few minutes with his family before disappearing into his study to work over blueprints, charts or reports till well past midnight. His sleep is likely to be broken and fitful. He hurries next day to his office complaining of a slight headache or tired feeling. Luncheon is rushed through or, if prolonged with associates, it may take the form of the typically American business conference which is hardly conducive to good digestion.

Conscientiously, the business executive may spend his weekends in pursuit of exercise. He drives himself as hard at play as at work. He hopes to recuperate from one strenuous week and prepare for another by playing from 36 to 72 holes of golf. His annual two or three weeks vacation may be spent in hurried travel or in violent sports. The fatigue and exposure of the hunting camp are disregarded.

THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGE

Term "Dunned" Known as Far Back as Henry VII

It is unfortunate but by no means uncommon to be "dunned" for taxes and other debts. Irritated citizens, however, can console themselves by reflecting that the word "dun" originated as far back as the reign of Henry VII. At that time, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald, there was a bailiff of the city of London who rejoiced in the name of Joe Dunn. So successful was Joe Dunn in getting money out of delinquent debtors that the merchants of that day used to say: "I shall have to Dun him" when they resolved as a last resource to take proceedings to recover their debt. Hence the name of this pioneer professional collector of debts crept gradually into the language, until it was adopted to signify urgent and persistent demands for payments.

Slang is frequently more expressive than orthodox English. The word "skedaddle" is a case in point. In an old Bible printed in Ireland about the Cromwellian period appeared: "For it is written I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered." Obviously a misprint for "scattered." The word evidently impressed itself on the minds of the descendants of the Cromwellian troopers who had settled in Ireland, and so reached the New World, and eventually became enshrined in the language.

CHEVROLET TRUCK PILING UP RECORDS

Indianapolis, May 23.—Still piling up records for economy and endurance, despite the fact that it has been driven more than 40,000 miles since Jan. 11, Chevrolet's Long Distance Dependability truck swung east and south this week, continuing a jaunt which has already exceeded, by 10,000 miles, the longest previous AAA-sponsored truck run.

The truck, which is making the run under direction of Harry Hartz, well-known former race driver, passed the 40,000-mile mark near St. Louis early this month. Since then, records kept by Stanley Reed, official AAA observer, have been checked by the Contest Board at Washington and certified for release. They show several facts of interest to truck owners, both of individual units and of fleets.

The truck's average speed has been 32.43 miles per hour, substantially higher than the average truck is called upon to deliver in normal commercial use. Despite a payload consisting of 4,500 pounds of steel, which brought the gross weight to 9,260 pounds including driver and observer, the unit has averaged 15.32 miles per gallon of gasoline, and 1,330 miles per quart of oil consumed. Only two quarts of oil have been added between regular changes, the report shows.

Adhering to the schedule of maintenance operations recommended to the company's truck customers, the crew has had the oil changed at regular intervals, and the chassis has been greased, the front wheel bearings repacked, and the oil bath cleaner oil and transmission and differential lubricant changed, at a total cost of $30.03. Total cost of gasoline, oil used, and lubrication, has been $385.87. Repairs, replacements and adjustments, aside from a tire change at 32,936.8 miles, costing $150, have totaled $24.66.

The total cost per mile is shown by the AAA as $0.1895, and the total cost per ton mile as $0.0409.

The unit is now scheduled to traverse parts of the South not yet touched, moving north up the Atlantic Coast to Portland, Me., and thence west.

A Chevrolet Covers a Continent

Miss Cyretta Morford, of Detroit, president of the Michigan Association of Teachers of Speech, is enthusiastic over the success of her recent experiment in touring Europe in her own car, which she shipped to France by boat. She and her party are shown before the Coliseum at Rome (upper left). At Pisa the famous Leaning Tower provides a picturesque background (upper right). Into the Alps went the sturdy Chevrolet, and it is shown (left center) parked by a Swiss customs house. The Sans Souci palace at Potsdam (lower left), former summer home of the German emperors, is modeled after the palace at Versailles. The new and the old are in striking contrast in the view of the Pantheon at lower right. The car not only helped the party to keep expenses at a minimum, but enabled it to see many points of interest "off the beaten path," Miss Morford said.

Duckbill Dinosaurs Able to Grow Teeth as Needed

Duckbill dinosaurs weren't at all like ducks when it came to the matter of teeth. They had about the finest dental mills any animal in the world has ever possessed, according to C. W. Gilmore, curator of vertebrate paleontology at the United States National museum. Two thousand teeth, ranged in rows both horizontal and vertical, formed a fair average equipment for one of them.

But it was all right, even for the creatures that inhabited the earth at the same time. Duckbill dinosaurs were quite harmless, feeding entirely on plants. Much more formidable were the fewer teeth in the jaws of the tyrannosaurs; their six-inch spikes, shaped like barracuda teeth but ten times bigger, were terrible tearers of flesh.

To get back to the duckbills; they not only had these batteries of many hundreds of teeth ready for immediate action at all times, but they had plenty more where they came from. If a tooth was worn out or broken, it was immediately replaced. Back of all the teeth were tooth buds ready to grow new ones; so a duckbill never had to worry about a toothless old age. If the tyrannosaurs let him get old, he still had his full set of teeth to the end.

A much bigger dinosaur, also a plant-eater, yet with fewer and weaker teeth, was Diplodocus, of which the National museum has a fine skeleton. "Dippy's" teeth were all in the front end of his jaws, and they were slender and rakelike. He had no real chewing teeth at all. It is therefore conjectured that Diplodocus raked up soft vegetation from the swamps and shallow lakes where he wallowed and gulped the mess down whole, to be ground up in his gizzard by the bushes or so of stones he habitually kept inside for that purpose.

"Mother Goose" Rhymes Traced to a Frenchman

There was a Mother Goose who lived in Boston two centuries ago, but she was not the first to give this name to nursery rhymes. The name came from the French in an indirect way, states a writer in the Detroit News, and is as follows:

A famous French author of fairy tales, Charles Perrault, published in 1697 a collection of these tales including the well known "Red Riding Hood." On the frontispiece was pictured an old woman spinning and telling these stories, and on a placard nearby was a French inscription meaning "Tales of My Mother Goose." Why he chose this name is not certain, but there was a kindly person in French legend, Queen Goosefoot, who was noted for her incredible stories and for her friendliness to children.

A Boston publisher, Thomas Fleet, son-in-law of Mrs. Elizabeth Goosie, published in 1719 a collection of nursery rhymes and jingles which he called "Songs for the Nursery, or Mother Goose's Melodies for Children." This was just ten years after Perrault's book was published in English, and the name was evidently derived from it. It was given as a collection of old jingles that Fleet's mother-in-law, Mother Goose, was in the habit of singing to his oldest child. She did not claim to have composed any of them. In 1780 John Newberry in London published a similar book of Mother Goose's Melodies.

The Hawthorn and Christ

The hawthorn is affiliated with the crucifixion of Christ. A robin is supposed to have pulled a thorn from Christ's brow and the blood splashed upon the breast of the robin. The holly was supposed by some to have been the wreath of torture worn by Christ. One of the saints is supposed to have wiped the blood sweat from the brow of Christ and veronica plants to this day show a faint human imprint. The cyclamen was symbolized by the Virgin Mary as blood drops. The Stars of Bethlehem were supposed to have originated from the meteor which burst across the land at the birth of Christ. The mottled marks of the foxglove and cowslip are supposed to have been placed there by elves.

Train Eskimo Puppies to Grow Into Good Pullers

The famous Eskimo dogs of the Arctic are adopted into the Eskimo family when puppies by a sort of ceremonial massage, each having his legs pulled and stretched so that he may run well, his back kneaded, so that he may be strong to carry a burden. They pull his ears and whisper into them to make his hearing keen; blow their breath into his nostrils to make him keen-scented and able to follow a trail, and to discover seal holes under the snow.

Then a name is given to the puppy, a small harness put on him, and he is tied to a post or some heavy article so that probably the first thing he learns is how to pull. Pulling will be his main work all his life, writes C. E. Whitaker in London Public Opinion.

If it is winter, the puppy and its mother will have a small snow-house, with dry grass, or an old skin with fur on it, to keep them warm. If it is very cold, they may be taken into the house for a time. If the family needs to travel the woman may put a puppy in her booties, which is quite wide, or in the hood of her coat, beside her own baby, to keep it warm. And always they talk to it as though it were a child.

The puppy may be named for any relative of its master or mistress. The name may serve for a man, for a girl baby, or for a puppy. The name of a dead relation is most often used. Thus a man may say to his wife: "Tie up my grandfather," meaning she is to tie up the dog whose name is that of his grandfather. The puppy is kept tied up until he is well grown. As he is often straining to get away, or to go somewhere, pulling becomes a fixed habit, and as he pulls he grows in usefulness.

Biting a Dog and Other Methods of Taking Oath

We all know the old story of the editor who told a young reporter that a dog biting a man was not news, but that a man biting a dog was news. In Kenya this brand of news is fairly common, for when the natives of a certain tribe have to appear as witnesses on any occasion, they take with them a live dog. Before giving their evidence the native will take a bite of skin from the wretched animal, at the same time saying, "As I bite this dog, so may I be bitten if I lie!" declares a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Many other countries have strange oaths; natives of Malaya tear the limbs from some small animal, such as a lizard or a frog, symbolizing that they may be similarly rent to pieces if they speak not the truth.

The Chinese smash a saucer to signify their willingness to be destroyed if they should bear false witness.

A Manx deemster upon his appointment has to make the following quaint oath: "... I will execute the laws of this island justly, and as indifferently as the herring back-bone doth lie in the midst of the fish."

Meaning of Fog-Drip

Fog-drip is the process by which moisture from drifting fog or clouds is caught by trees and bushes and then shed upon the ground. The island of Ascension, in the South Atlantic, depends for its water supply mainly upon the moisture caught from passing clouds and fog by plants growing on Green mountain. The once mysterious "dewponds" found on hilltops in southern England, which provide an unfailing supply of water even when the wells and springs in the valleys below have gone dry, are known to be fed to a great extent by fog from the ocean, caught by the shrubs and grasses around their borders. Fog-drip also explains the legend of the "raintree," said to grow in the island of Ferro, one of the Canaries, and to shed water from its leaves in such abundance as to supply the needs of the entire island. Although somewhat embroidered, the legend is not to be regarded as mythical, since the interior of this mountainous island rises to a height of about 5,000 feet and the uplands often are enveloped in clouds.

Kiva Secret Guarded

In each of the New Mexico pueblos are one or more community houses, called "kivas," where are held the secret ceremonies of the tribe. Entrance is through a hole in the top by means of a ladder made of two saplings. What goes on in the kivas is largely conjecture, as far as the white man is concerned, because no entrance is permitted. Boys are trained in kivas for long periods, but of just what their training consists is not known outside of the tribe.

Portraitist Supreme

Rembrandt, 1606-1669, was a Dutch miller's son who became the greatest portraitist in history of art. He was a huge success at twenty-one. For years he lavished great wealth on his family and friends, and paid extravagant sums for other artists' pictures. One by one he lost love, riches, family, prestige. He died alone and forgotten in Amsterdam slums. He loved to paint himself, and friends dressed in "prop" costumes from his studio.

THE INNER URGE

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

In a large factory where dynamos were made, a worker's hand clenched to a hammer was about to strike a piece of steel, when the first sound of the noonday whistle was heard. Immediately, without striking the blow, the hand relaxed, the hammer was thrown down, and the workman retired to his lunch.

He was within his rights, as the first sound of the whistle announced the mid-day recess. But the question is, would he not have made that strike of the hammer, if he had been seriously interested in the work he was doing? Perhaps several more blows of the hammer might have finished the job and convinced others of the sincere spirit of humble toil. What is true of the factory mechanic is true of all forms of service.

Achievement is attained not so much by doing what others demand of us, but what we demand of ourselves. External laws governing time and wages are important and must be honored, but no system of external forces ever inspired the spirit of sacrifice and loyalty which alone makes men truly great. The difference between the work of genius and that of less degree is not only in the number of talents but also in their use. Eight hours of daily practice may produce a skilled musician, but ten hours a day might disclose the ability of a genius. No true scientist ever closes the door of his laboratory when the required number of working hours has been fulfilled. Indeed, he will remain by his test tubes far into the night, if it be necessary to study reactions relative to the solution of a difficult experiment. It is said of the late Theodore Roosevelt that he did some of his best work after his second wind. The business man is compelled to obey certain legal and social obligations, but the greater part of his success can be accounted for not by his obedience to obligations forced upon him from without but by obedience to those within. It is the second stroke of the hammer that expresses our interest in and love for our work. The force compelling us to deliver the second stroke is not outside of us, but inside, an urge to go on despite weariness, or discouragement or apparent defeat.

What task challenges our loyalty? For what end are we willing to sacrifice? When we have answered that question, we shall have discovered the pathway leading to satisfaction and achievement. The result is never so important as the spirit of the beginning. The perfect automobile has not yet been made. The laboratory of science has many secrets still unrevealed. The problem of social adjustment has not been solved. The best poem has not been written. The word "Finis" has no place in any form of creative toil. The whole world lies all about us, still unexplored. It will yield its highest reward when we have given good measure; for that measure will return, shaken together. Only as we give of our inner self does the inner self expand. Not what we are compelled to do by external forces, but what we are impelled to do by the "inner urge" determines our status in the field of permanent values. The spirit of our work must express the quality of our nature.

Buy a Memorial poppy when the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary call upon you. Poppy Day is observed throughout the United States by wearing poppies in honor of the World War dead. The flowers are replicas of the poppies that grew on the battlefields of France and Belgium during the World War; they grew where they fell, the one touch of beauty in the desolate battle areas. They are made by disabled World War veterans in hospitals, some of the workmen lying in their beds.

A mattress, bedding and a chair were ruined in a fire at the Holger Schmidt home at 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Fire had caught in the bed clothing from a lighted cigarette by one of the lodgers. This was the second time the roof had caught fire. The city fire department made quick runs to both conflagrations.

Dear Jim:

The other night I thought for quite a while I was goin' to be distinctly disappointed over at th' Rod & Gun Fish Fry at Hastings.

The very first thing Clyde Wilcox, th' leadin' florist of th' town, with th' able assistance of his wife, an' Homer Smith an' Doc Carrothers an' others, said that Governor Rover Murphy wasn't goin' to be present.

I had figured maybe he might make it an' I was primed to hear some of his first-class oratory, first-hand, an' when they said he wasn't comin', but was on his way someplace else, as usual, I got pretty low.

An' I was standin' in the big door of th' Barry County garage leaning my nose against the perfume of flets fryin' in deep fat, when a well-dressed young man said to me:

"They's 800 an' better lakes in Barry County—but th' best of 'em all is Middle Lake."

I asked him on what grounds he predicated his assertions.

"Well," he said, "with a far-away dreamy look in his eyes, 'you c'n catch bluegills out there that'll tip th' beam at 3 1/2 pounds. An' that's a bluegill!'"

I agreed.

"An' they was a bass caught out there last year that weighed 11 an' 7-8th pounds. An' that's some bass!"

I decided it was, too, and told him so.

Then he said he was sorry they never could find a bait to catch the perch out there. In the winter, he said a fisherman saw a school of perch go through his darkhouse that was twenty feet wide—and it took the school an hour to pass a given point. I asked him what given point and he said he didn't know—but the fisherman finally got so he couldn't stand it any longer and he heaved a spear. And the perch he got weighed 4 and 5-16ths pounds.

"That's some perch," he said.

I wouldn't argy th' point with him and just then I saw George Dorman an' Dave Goodyear an' Bill Frankhauser and a waitress going by with a platter of the fried flets. So I had to go but just before I did I said to the well-dressed young man:

"What's your name?"

An' he replied:

"Murphy."

So I followed close in behind

STRAITS OF MACKINAC BOAT SCHEDULES

The summer ferry schedule at the Straits of Mackinac will be advanced this week by Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner to take care of the expected Memorial Day week-end traffic rush.

The new schedule will go into effect Friday night (May 27) when three additional round trips will be made during the night and early Saturday morning by the two boats now in operation. A third boat will go into service Saturday morning and continue in operation throughout the summer. The summer schedule usually begins June 1.

Final trips are now made at 9 o'clock from both Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. On Friday night there will be trips from the former port at 11 p. m., 2 a. m., and 5 a. m. From St. Ignace there will be departures at 12:30 a. m., 3:30 a. m., and 5:30 a. m.

On the summer schedule, boats will leave Mackinaw City every hour between 5 a. m. and 9 p. m. with additional trips at 11 p. m. and 2 a. m. The same hourly schedule will be maintained at St. Ignace beginning at 5:30 a. m. through 9:30 p. m. with additional trips at 12:30 a. m. and 3:30 a. m.

Commissioner Van Wagoner announced that traffic at the Straits is slightly ahead of the volume at this time last year.

CCC NEWS

Lansing, May 24—Forest fire crews have been organized in all eight of the Michigan CCC camps in the Lower Peninsula to serve as emergency reinforcements during the current fire season.

The crews will function in co-operation with the field administration division of the Department of Conservation, the State's full-time fire control organization.

Lectures and classes have been held in all of the camps for instruction in fire regulations, use of equipment and in the various methods employed by the field administration division in fighting fires.

The meetings and organization of the fire crews were effected under the direction of N. L. MacDonald, detached supervisor assigned especially to this phase of CCC cooperation in the preservation of the State's forests and wildlife.

Kalkaska CCC Enrollees Taken On a Trip

Camp Kalkaska's CCC crews of tree planters have completed the spring program with a record of 985 acres reforested to 788,000 pines, divided about equally between Norway and Jack.

As reward for the job, 73 enrollees comprising the three crews which engaged in the tree planting program were taken on an orientation trip to demonstrate for them what the reforestation program would mean to this locality. The trip included stops at the Deward fire tower, Frederic, the AuSable River, the Hartwick Pines, Grayling Fish Hatchery, the State Nursery at Higgins Lake and the Portage Lake fire tower. In addition to viewing areas which either have been included already in the reforestation program or are scheduled to be, the boys inspected stream improvement projects, park landscaping and tree nursery operations.

Fire which broke out at Twin Lakes in the Pigeon River forest shortly after the place had been visited by sightseers who were reported to have been smoking burned over about a quarter of an acre before it was extinguished with the aid of a CCC crew from Camp Pigeon River.

This was the second forest fire Camp Pigeon River enrollees have aided in fighting this spring. About an hour was required to bring the blaze under control.

Grayling—Concrete work for the foundations and basement walls has been completed for the AuSable Forest Headquarters residence being built by CCC crews. A large portion of the materials needed for the completion of the building is now stored on the site, including furnace, pipes, fittings, floorings, wall-board, lathe, celotex, insulations, plumbing supplies and other items.

Roscommon—Close to seven million trees were taken from the Higgins Lake State Nursery during the first seven weeks of tree planting this spring.

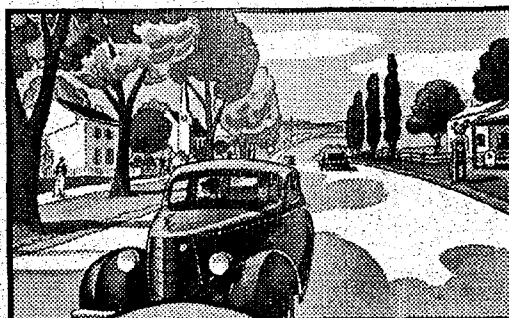

The number included 3,368,400 Jack pine; 3,291,700 Norway pine and 164,200 White pine. The largest number was sent to CCC Camp AuSable, which received 599,500 Norways and an equal number of Jacks.

Vanderbilt—A young deer inhabiting this vicinity owes its life to the chance passing of CCC Enrollee Charles Stevens of Camp Pigeon River. Stevens was on his way to the Higgins Lake State Nursery when he saw the deer caught in a wire fence. With the aid of a passing civilian, he freed the animal which bounded away apparently uninjured.

...in giant poll of 24,744 new car owners

Capitals, including Albany, Trenton, Springfield and Lansing, sent in their ballots; also industrial centers, such as Toledo, Newark, Danbury and Wilmington, took part in this survey.

Big cities like Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Rochester and Buffalo were included in this vote.

FIRST CHOICE IN LANDSLIDE VOTE IN 140 CITIES

Here's a story of motor fuel superiority . . . told, not by its manufacturer, but by the most critical of its users—owners of new cars with high-compression engines. These experienced drivers ranked Blue Sunoco first by 57.5% more votes than the next highest on the list . . . gave it 95% as many votes as the next two gasolines put together. Certainly facts like these should convince you that High Geared Blue Sunoco is the motor fuel for your car . . . because—since new cars require a better gasoline to perform satisfactorily, such a gasoline will obviously perform with at least equal satisfaction in older cars.

This survey was conducted by an independent organization in New York, Rhode Island, Conn., Mass., Penna., Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, West Va., Mich. and Ohio. The replies received were submitted to Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, certified public accountants, who prepared the above tabulation therefrom.
